Need For Reinforcements On Pacific Front Stressed By Newsmen

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—President Roosevelt today, called on every American citizen with a radio to tune in at 10 o'clock, eastern war time, tonight—preferably with a map of the world at hand—to hear some hard, cold, and probably unpleasant facts about the current position of the United States in a world at war.

The White House minced no words in forecasting that the President intends to make it very clear in tonight's broadcast that the broad expanses of the Pacific and the Atlantic oceans no longer afford America protection from attack.

Under certain conditions, Mr. Roosevelt has warned, even inland cities might become as vulnerable to enemy bombing as the vitally important oil tankers and cargo ships that are being sunk almost daily by axis submarines from one end of the Western Hemisphere coastlines to the other.

President Roosevelt goes on the air tonight just eight days after Prime Minister Winston Churchill's last world broadcast, Churchill, on Sunday, February 15, had to announce the fall of Singapore and several days later he had to face a forced cabinet shake-up.

Rush For Maps Seen In Gotham

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—New York needed a Leon Henderson today to ration maps and globes as supplies ran low on President Roosevelt's suggestion to follow his talk tonight on the progress of the war on a world chart.

"We shipped out 10,000 maps airmail to one customer in Detroit on Saturday. We had an order for 100,000 for another customer out of town. Its astounding."

Wants to Enlist—City Says No!

Frederick Donnatelli, of Revere, Mass., shown with his wife and four children, wanted to enlist in the army so badly he wrote President Roosevelt about it. The city's welfare commissioner has fought the enlistment on grounds the family would become dependents of the city if he succeeds. Mrs. Donnatelli and the draft board have signed waivers.

Installation Of Parking Meters Begins At Once

James Logan, representative for the Dual Parking Meter company of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, arrived in Circleville Monday and said that work on the installation of 100 parking meters in the downtown area would begin immediately.

The work will be done by the city service department, under the supervision of the meter company official. The location for each meter first will be marked and holes drilled in the concrete for inserting the meter stands.

Service Director Clarence Helvering already has mapped out tentative plans for location of the meters, with meter zones being on Court street from Franklin street to Pinckney street and on Main street from Scioto street to the first alley east of Court street. The tentative plans also call for installation of meters on the north side of Franklin street from Court street to the first alley east of Court.

Meters are of the penny-nickle type, and parkers will pay one cent for parking 12 minutes, two cents for 24 minutes, three cents for 36 minutes, four cents for 48 minutes and five cents for an hour.

AUSTRALIAN AIR FORCE ATTACKS JAPANESE BASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23—Bombers of the Royal Australian Air force attacked Japanese positions in the Rabaul area of New Britain island last night and this morning, according to a Melbourne broadcast heard by CBS.

"The target area was covered by heavy clouds making observation very difficult," the broadcast stated. "In spite of this handicap some of our aircraft dived through the clouds and found their targets. They bombed an airfield and shipping and hits were observed."

Escorting Australian fighter planes, the announcer said, fought off Japanese interceptor craft. Three Australian airmen were reported wounded.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 23—Burns suffered a week ago when a kitchen stove ignited her clothing today had caused the death of Miss Grace Sample, 58, the first woman to be employed as a telephone operator in the Columbus police station.

Phillips who escaped from the state hospital for the criminally insane at Lima with the boast that he would never be taken alive was taken after an undisclosed number of federal agents in conjunction with Cleveland detectives surrounded the house and called to Phillips to give himself up. The ex-convict, whose criminal record reaches back to 1934, dived through a window but was shot in the neck before he could get away.

Under a life sentence for robbing the Avondale branch of the Central Trust company in Cincinnati, Phillips had been trailed by G-men for several weeks and had just escaped capture in Detroit. Shortly after he had escaped from the Lima institution, along with a companion, Ralph Ulrey of Columbus, the pair was reported to have been seen at South Bloomfield on Route 23 north of Circleville. Sheriff's officers and police watched all roads in the vicinity for several hours after the report, but saw no trace of the two men and the report later was believed to have been false.

Robbery of the Circleville bank netted the bandits $11,500.

MARION BANDIT SHOT, CAPTURED BY FBI, POLICE

Washington's Words May Be Used To Spur Americans To New Effort

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., Feb. 23—Embattled America today took up the cry of "remember Washington" and historic Valley Forge gained new patriotic significance in view of the parallel between the "dark days" that beset this nation now and those of the winter of 1777-1778.

It was on this camp site that General George Washington and 11,000 ragged colonials starved and froze during the blackest hours of the Revolution. And Uncle Sam's armed forces from Bataan to Batavia today draw new courage from the memory of those heroic six months.

"Father George" observed his 46th birthday at Valley Forge just 164 years ago. At that time, his under-armed and ill-clad troops had just suffered crushing defeats at the hands of General Howe in the battles of Brandywine and Germantown.

Records of the Valley Forge historical society show no outward commemoration of the event at the encampment in 1778. Washington was too busy rallying and training his men, spurring their morale—and pleading for congressional help in the form of supplies and reinforcements.

In another striking parallel, the nation's defense plants are ignoring the legal holiday today. They're laboring as usual to forge the weapons that will help to preserve the liberty won for the United States by the hardy Revolutionary army.

Simple services at the famous Washington memorial chapel here marked the first presidential 210th anniversary. This year, the ceremonies were dedicated to "all the free nations of the world"—and the theme was taken from the words of George Washington himself.

To a nation tightening its belt under increasing strict wartime rationing, it was observed, the comments of Washington to his soldiers at Valley Forge are as fresh and timely as today's news bulletins. He said: "Surely, we who are free citizens in arms engaged in a struggle for everything valuable in society . . . should scorn effeminately to shrink under those accidents and rigors of war which mercenary hirelings fighting in the cause of lawless ambition, rapine and devastation encounter with carelessness and alacrity."

How well the colonials responded to that plea is demonstrated in another speech in which the first commander-in-chief remarked: "Naked and starving as they are, we cannot enough admire the incomparable patience and fidelity of the soldiery."

The colonial army left 3,000 dead behind them when they broke camp on the rugged slopes of Valley Forge in June, 1778. Shortly afterward—in a happy omen for today's conflict—the same troops dealt a bruising defeat to the enemy at Monmouth, N. J., in a battle that helped materially to end the war that made the United States a free nation.

JAPANESE BOMBS FALL ON DUTCH MERCY SHIP CAUSING CASUALTIES

BATAVIA, Feb. 23—The Netherlands hospital ship "Optenocot" has been attacked by a group of Japanese bombers at an undisclosed spot, it was announced today, according to the N.E.I. news agency Aneta.

Two persons were killed, 13 wounded and considerable damage done to the ship, the announcement said.

The ship was clearly marked with the internationally accepted hospital ship markings.

Coast Guard Says Loss Of Life Moderate; Vessel Sunk In Atlantic

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The Navy department today announced that the coast guard had lost its first cutter to the enemy.

In a communique the Navy disclosed that the cutter Alexander Hamilton had been torpedoed by an enemy submarine off Iceland. The Navy was forced to sink the vessel by gunfire later when it capsized while being towed to port.

The Navy said that loss of life "was moderate."

Details of the sinking were not given in the Navy communique nor was it said when the attack occurred.

The Alexander Hamilton, the U. S. coast guard ship, was built in 1937 at New York. The vessel had a capacity of 2,141 gross tons, was 327 feet long and 41 feet in the beam.

The boat carried a couple of five inch guns and anti-aircraft battery. Its cruising radius was 8,000 miles and at a speed of 11 knots it could travel 12,300 miles, according to Navy statistics.

NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 23—Authorities renewed efforts today to recover the bodies of 16 persons, three of them women, drowned in the swift, turbulent waters of the Ohio river when the towboat G. W. McBride crashed against a Louisville & Nashville railroad pier and split in two.

Only five of the crew of 21 were saved. A diver who attempted to locate the bodies yesterday within a few hours of the tragedy was forced to forego further dives because of the powerful currents which were described as "unbelievably treacherous."

The U. S. army craft Lucius Johnson, which lowered a drag line at the scene, likewise was unsuccessful in its early attempts to recover the bodies.

The McBride, a 165-ton vessel, was pushing a five-barge cargo of approximately 4,000 tons of coal, when the current swept the towboat against the pier. There was a rending crash as the boat broke in two, one section sinking almost immediately and trapping the 16 crew members in the galley or sleeping quarters.

600 MORE SPY, 'FIFTH COLUMN' SUSPECTS HELD

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23—More than 600 enemy aliens were under arrest today as a result of weekend roundups of spy suspects in California, Arizona, Oregon and Washington.

While hundreds of FBI agents and local peace officers conducted the raids against potential fifth columnists from the Canadian to the Mexican border, preparations were being completed for action against axis nationals remaining in western prohibited zones after the deadline at midnight tomorrow.

Huge stores of contraband also were taken in the latest drive against suspicious enemy aliens, including 60 guns, several thousand rounds of ammunition, 30 short wave radios, 33 cameras, several daggers, Japanese flags, swastika banners, photographic equipment and signaling devices.

As the government completed its most extensive crackdown on potentially dangerous aliens, the Tolan congressional committee was to resume hearings in San Francisco today into the problem of axis nationals on the Pacific coast.

Witnesses so far agreed that all Japanese, whether citizens or aliens, should be ousted from defense zones immediately.

TWO GERMANS CAUGHT IN NEW YORK AS FUGITIVES

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Feb. 23—Two Germans, who fled from a Canadian prison camp and were recaptured in Watertown, N. Y., today were held by immigration authorities in Ogdensburg pending orders from the department of justice in Washington.

The Germans, who said they were Lieutenants Albert Henrick Waller and Ulrich Steinheper, were taken into custody last night after Watertown police became curious about their large overalls and haversacks.

Congressional Bloc Seeks To Improve Lot For Men Of Soil

PRICE SCHEDULE VITAL

Many Draft Boards Not Giving Consideration Of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The congressional farm bloc today opened a two-front drive to improve the war time lot of their agricultural constituents.

Called before the House agricultural committee "to work out a plan" for draft deferment of farm labor were Brig. Gen. Lewis Hershey, director of Selective Service, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, and M. Clifford Townsend, director of the office of Agricultural Defense Relations.

Rural senate leaders, meanwhile, were driving for votes for their bill to prohibit the Commodity Credit corporation or any other federal agency from selling surplus farm stocks at less than parity prices.

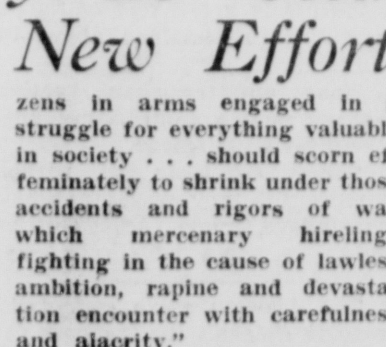

Both moves are expected to touch off criticism from urban congressmen.

The Senate price proposal already has been attacked by many who charge that the ever soaring cost of living cannot be checked unless farm prices are held within bounds.

Sky-Rocketing Feared

Wickard himself has urged that some farm prices be held below parity in order to avoid sky-rocketing of living costs, and he is expected to be bitterly criticized on the Senate floor when Senator (Continued on Page Two)

UNITED NATIONS PREPARING FOR JAVA ASSAULT

ALLIES SMASH VESSELS

At Least 17 Units Struck; Survivors Seek Safety In Pacific

By Leo V. Dolan

INS War Editor

Good news came today from the battlefield in the Dutch East Indies.

An official communique disclosed that Japanese invasion forces which were put ashore last week at Bali have been cut off, at least temporarily, from seaborne reinforcements or supplies.

The Dutch high command said that the Japanese invasion fleet which had been sent out for conquest of Bali, directly to Java, could be assumed to have been for the greater part destroyed or badly damaged. One single ship which escaped the destruction inflicted on the remainder of the fleet by United Nations bombing planes and warships fled to the open sea.

Nevertheless, the Jap troops who landed last week under a hail of gunfire and bombs from allied ships and planes scored new advances on Bali. Loss of part of that fabled island, including the airfield at Don Pasar, was conceded by the Dutch East Indies high command.

Closer to home, on the ocean lane between Iceland and the United States, an enemy submarine struck at the line of supply to U. S. forces stationed in Iceland. The coast guard cutter Alexander Hamilton was torpedoed and later capsized when being towed into port, necessitating its destruction by gunfire. Fortunately, loss of life aboard the small craft was moderate.

New Assaults Near

In the Philippines, there was a cessation of all activities. This obviously was but the prelude to new and heavier Japanese assaults on the American defense lines. In awarding decorations for bravery to two high-ranking officers, Gen. Douglas MacArthur quietly observed that tomorrow the men he was decorating might no longer be alive.

But it was on the island of Bali, and the United Nations stronghold of Java, that the world's eyes were focused today as the Japs were slowed down on land and halted at sea by the determined resistance of the defending forces.

So savagely did pilots of the United Nations strike at Jap warships and transports attempting to reinforce enemy troops on Bali that these craft were driven away and forced to seek safety at sea. This action followed the heavy toll exacted last week from the Japs off Bali when at least 17 enemy naval units or transports were sunk or damaged. The Dutch communique said today with reference (Continued on Page Two)

SOVIET TO DRIVE ALL NAZIS OFF SOIL OF RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 23—Premier Josef Stalin today commemorated the 24th birthday anniversary of the Red army with a promise that the Nazi invaders will be thrown out of Russia.

"The Red banner will fly everywhere it has flown before," Stalin declared. "We shall throw the enemy from the gates of Leningrad, and liberate White Russia, the Ukraine and the Crimea."

But he warned that Germany was not yet beaten and that "a stern struggle lies ahead."

Official communiques continued vague and laconic, but Moscow was tense with expectancy of sensational announcements before nightfall.

Russian spearheads were reported to have crossed the Latvian border, and Pravda, Communist party newspaper, declared that more than 300,000 Germans had been slain on the battlefronts in the seven weeks between December 6 and January 15.

Along a 1,700-mile front Soviet advances were continuing, it was reported in military quarters in Moscow.

Announcement of the successor to Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, who resigned a month ago, was made early today at No. 10 Downing street.

CONTRACTOR WHO TURNED BANDIT SHOT TO DEATH

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 23—Blazing guns of local, state and federal officers today had ended the lengthy criminal career of Irving Charles Chapman, a one-time wealthy and prominent contractor.

Chapman, who earned for himself the dubious title of Public Enemy No. 1 after he turned to crime, met death in Heshoba county when he chose to fight it out rather than surrender.

Thirty-eight years old, Chapman was wanted for crimes committed in half a dozen states—crimes which included bank robbing, kidnapping and prison breaks.

One of Chapman's latest criminal exploits occurred when he shot his way to freedom from the Eastham, Tex., state farm near Weldon. Since that escape, state and federal authorities have kept up a constant search for him. Once, officers thought they had him trapped in the Mississippi woods, but again Chapman shot himself to freedom.

Two submarines were believed to have taken part in the attack on the 5,127-ton freighter which was owned by the Mississippi shipping company. 600 MORE SPY, 'FIFTH COLUMN' SUSPECTS HELD

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23—More than 600 enemy aliens were under arrest today as a result of weekend roundups of spy suspects in California, Arizona, Oregon and Washington.

While hundreds of FBI agents and local peace officers conducted the raids against potential fifth columnists from the Canadian to the Mexican border, preparations were being completed for action against axis nationals remaining in western prohibited zones after the deadline at midnight tomorrow.

Huge stores of contraband also were taken in the latest drive against suspicious enemy aliens, including 60 guns, several thousand rounds of ammunition, 30 short wave radios, 32 cameras, several daggers, Japanese flags, swastika banners, photographic equipment and signaling devices.

As the government completed its most extensive crackdown on potentially dangerous aliens, the Tolian congressional committee was to resume hearings in San Francisco today into the problem of axis nationals on the Pacific coast.

Witnesses so far agreed that all Japanese, whether citizens or aliens, should be ousted from defense zones immediately.

The Germans, who said they were Lieutenants Albert Henrick Waller and Ulrich Steinhilper, were taken into custody last night after Watertown police became curious about their large overalls and haversacks.

SOVIET TO DRIVE ALL NAZIS OFF SOIL OF RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 23—Premier Josef Stalin today commemorated the 24th birthday anniversary of the Red army with a promise that the Nazi invaders will be thrown out of Russia.

"The Red banner will fly everywhere it has flown before," Stalin declared. "We shall throw the enemy from the gates of Leningrad, and liberate White Russia, the Ukraine and the Crimea."

But he warned that Germany was not yet beaten and that "a stern struggle lies ahead."

Official communiques continued vague and laconic, but Moscow was tense with expectancy of sensational announcements before nightfall.

Russian spearheads were reported to have crossed the Latvian border, and Pravda, Communist party newspaper, declared that more than 300,000 Germans had been slain on the battlefronts in the seven weeks between December 6 and January 15.

Along a 1,700-mile front Soviet advances were continuing, it was reported in military quarters in Moscow.

UNITED NATIONS PREPARING FOR JAVA ASSAULT

Nipponese Grab Important Air Base On Island Off Dutch Bulwark

ALLIES SMASH VESSELS

At Least 17 Units Struck; Survivors Seek Safety In Pacific

By Leo V. Dolan
INS War Editor

Good news came today from the battlefield in the Dutch East Indies.

An official communique disclosed that Japanese invasion forces which were put ashore last week at Bali have been cut off, at least temporarily, from sea-borne reinforcements or supplies.

The Dutch high command said that the Japanese invasion fleet which had been sent out for conquest of Bali, directly to Java, could be assumed to have been for the greater part destroyed or badly damaged. One single ship which escaped the destruction inflicted on the remainder of the fleet by United Nations bombing planes and warships fled to the open sea.

Nevertheless, the Jap troops who landed last week under a hail of gunfire and bombs from allied ships and planes scored new advances on Bali. Loss of part of that fabled island, including the airdrome at Don Passar, was conceded by the Dutch East Indies high command.

Closer to home, on the ocean lane between Iceland and the United States, an enemy submarine struck at the line of supply to U. S. forces stationed in Iceland. The coast guard cutter Alexander Hamilton was torpedoed and later capsized when being towed into port, necessitating its destruction by gunfire. Fortunately, loss of life aboard the small craft was moderate.

New Assaults Near

In the Philippines, there was a cessation of all activities. This obviously was but the prelude to new and heavier Japanese assaults on the American defense lines. In awarding decorations for bravery to two high-ranking officers, Gen. Douglas MacArthur quietly observed that tomorrow the men he was decorating might no longer be alive.

But it was on the island of Bali, and the United Nations stronghold of Java, that the world's eyes were focused today as the Japs were slowed down on land and halted at sea by the determined resistance of the defending forces.

So savagely did pilots of the United Nations strike at Jap warships and transports attempting to reinforce enemy troops on Bali that these craft were driven away and forced to seek safety at sea. This action followed the heavy toll exacted last week from the Japs off Bali when at least 17 enemy naval units or transports were sunk or damaged. The Dutch communique said today with ref-

CONTRACTOR WHO TURNED BANDIT SHOT TO DEATH

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 23—Blazing guns of local, state and federal officers today had ended the lengthy criminal career of Irving Charles Chapman, a one-time wealthy and prominent contractor.

Chapman, who earned for himself the dubious title of Public Enemy No. 1 after he turned to crime, met death in Heshoba county when he chose to fight it out rather than surrender.

Thirty-eight years old, Chapman was wanted for crimes committed in half a dozen states—crimes which included bank robbing, kidnapping and prison breaks.

One of Chapman's latest criminal exploits occurred when he shot his way to freedom from the Eastham, Tex., state farm near Weldon. Since that escape, state and federal authorities have kept up a constant search for him. Once, officers thought they had him trapped in the Mississippi woods, but again Chapman shot himself to freedom.

ence to that engagement that the assumption could be made that the fleet which the Japs sent out for the conquest of Ball had been destroyed or badly damaged. "A single ship which succeeded in escaping the destruction fled," the communique added.

The situation in the jungles of Bataan remained virtually unchanged save for increasingly heavy artillery duels.

Reinforcements Helping

Hope of relieving Gen. Douglas MacArthur's outnumbered but valiant forces in the Philippines remained remote. But advice reaching Washington indicated reinforcements sent to the southwest Pacific are checking the Japs in their attempts to conquer Java.

Reports direct from the far Pacific war zone supported these Washington advices.

Meanwhile, the United States and the world waited for President Roosevelt's report on the position of America in the war. The President is scheduled to deliver his radio address at 10 p. m. est. when he begins to talk the nation will hear some hard, cold and probably unpleasant facts about the situation in both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans.

The battle of Burma still raged thunderously between the Bilin and Sittang rivers as the Japs maintained their attacks on British-held positions. Latest advices said that at several points the Nipponese assaults had been met and thrown back. American and British bombers hammered Japanese columns and bases.

Australia Prepares

Australia, facing the possibility of a direct invasion attempt, ordered all physically fit men in the army to active field duty.

The latest official word from Russia was a terse war communique which said: "During the night our troops continued active operations against Fascist troops."

Earlier, Premier Josef Stalin had commemorated the 24th anniversary of the founding of the Red army with a promise that the Nazi invaders will be thrown out of Russia, and a warning that a "stern struggle lies ahead."

Moscow tensely awaited an expected announcement detailing recent Russian victories in the Red army winter campaign.

In London there were predictions of "some measure" of self-rule for India after Prime Minister Winston Churchill once again reshuffled his cabinet. Six cabinet posts changed hands. Chief of the changes was the elevation of Sir James Grigg, former permanent undersecretary for war, to the position of war secretary, replacing Capt. David Margesson.

British newspaper opinion was divided as to whether the changes were sweeping enough. The London Daily Express asked the nation to "give the new team full support."

But the London Daily Mail complained that "it cannot be said the ministers who have arrived present any improvement over the ministers who have departed."

Dispatches from Batavia said heavy fighting still raged on South Sumatra and storied Bali as the Dutch held back the swarming Japs who were trying to gain control of the western and eastern flanks of Java's defenses.

United States and Dutch naval and air units were reported hammering enemy seaborne reinforcements without respite.

Meanwhile, it was understood in Washington that both Australia and the Netherlands Indies are pressing for stronger offensive action by the United Nations to check the Jap drive. One prominent diplomat put it this way:

"What the United Nations need now is an offensive rather than a defensive spirit. We have been kicked around too much recently in all parts of the world. We need a few more daring enterprises now."

That materials for such action are in the making was attested by Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D) Tenn., ranking member of the Senate appropriations committee. He made the cheering prediction that within 60 to 90 days America will be producing more fighting planes and better ones than Germany, Italy and Japan combined.

The state of Virginia has approximately 8,500 miles of state highways, of which 6,500 are hard surfaced.

DEFERMENT OF FARM WORKERS BEING STUDIED

Bankhead (D) Ala., calls up the measure, probably tomorrow.

The farm group was successful in writing into the recent price control bill drastic restrictions against low ceilings on farm prices, and members now charge that if the government is allowed to "dump" surplus cotton, wheat and other commodities on the market at prices below parity these restrictions will, in effect, be wiped out.

The problem of deferment for farm labor has long troubled rural legislators who contend that the drafting of men who work in the fields is placing a serious hardship on the farmers.

Members Not Pleased

Although Gen. Hershey has previously publicly assured Congress that he regards farm labor as vital to the welfare of the nation, members are far from satisfied about the situation.

"It appears that many draft boards are not giving serious thought to proper deferment," Rep. Fulmer (D) S. C., chairman of the agricultural committee, declared.

"In other words, they are drafting from the farms all of those who are eligible, regardless of the farm labor situation."

MacARTHUR AND MEN GIVEN REST BY JAP HORDES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — As the Pacific conflict entered its 12th week, an ominous lull in enemy activity on Bataan peninsula today indicated that the Japanese may be gathering all their strength for a supreme assault designed to wipe out Gen. Douglas MacArthur's outnumbered defenders.

MacArthur reported that "fighting has died down on all fronts on Luzon," and that there had been practically no enemy air or ground activity for 24 hours.

In view of the fact that the Japanese have been pouring reinforcements into the Philippines for weeks, the lull in fighting appeared to mean that they are rearranging their forces for the long promised onslaught.

Lack of fighting gave MacArthur an opportunity to celebrate Washington's birthday by awarding distinguished service stars of the Philippines to two of his high ranking American officers.

The men honored were Maj. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, of Hancock, Md., and Brig. Gen. Richard J. Marshall, of Markham, Va.

The two officers are credited with playing a major part in mapping the defense plans which to date have prevented the Japanese from completing their conquest of the Philippines.

OUTPUT OF MECHANICAL REFRIGERATORS HALTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The WPB today ordered a complete halt in production of mechanical refrigerators effective April 30, 1942, "So that the entire industry can be converted into the production of war materials."

At the same time, it issued a freezing order directing that all refrigerators produced up until April 30 to be placed in a stockpile. By that time, it was estimated a stockpile of 750,000 units will have been built up.

Refrigerators in the stockpile, it was said, "will be available only for essential civilian and military requirements." Although the order did not say so, it was generally believed that refrigerators in the stockpile, will be subject to rationing.

HILLMAN'S PLEA SENDS STRIKERS BACK TO JOBS

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—The week-old strike at the Columbian Bronze Corporation plant at Freeport ended today as nearly 300 employees returned to their benches.

Acting on a plea from Sidney Hillman, the strikers voted to return to the plant. The strikers, who are working on navy contracts, sought recognition of newly-organized unions of machinists and polishers.

Three of the strikers were ordered to appear before the local draft board 717 today for reclassification. They are at present in class 2B—deferred because of their employment.

Yacht Club Men Aid

Two employees of the Southern Yacht club, Joseph Haas and William Pierman, were on a harbor boat moored 200 yards away, and rowed to the scene where they rescued five of the crew.

Saved were Woomer and Ralph Heineman, engineers, of Henderson, W. Va.; George Harrison and Ernest Easter, deckhands, of Henderson, and John W. Cain, a deck hand, of Burlington, O.

The Ohio River company, operator of the towboat and a subsidiary of the West Virginia Coal and Coke Co., listed as the victims in addition to Capt. Peter Lallance and the three women:

James Crum, Catlettsburg, Ky., mate; Kenneth McClain, Concord, Ky., deckhand; Clarence James, Huntington, W. Va., second mate; Sam and Charles Medley, brothers, Huntington, W. Va. firemen; Hartzel Brown, Buena Vista, O., fireman; James Foulks, fireman, Huntington; Kenneth Peck, first engineer, Charles Sayre, second engineer, and H. Birchfield, deckhand, all of Henderson, W. Va.; Robert Kincaid, Portsmouth, O., deckhand, and Roy Eddington, Augusta, Ky., pilot captain.

The tragedy occurred on one of the most treacherous stretches of the 981-mile river—one which causes towboatmen to split their tows in navigating the swift current.

The McBride left five of its nine barges, each loaded with 1,000 tons of coal from Huntington, W. Va., at the Cincinnati waterworks, a few miles upstream, and came down with four loaded barges and an empty fuel flat. Rivermen believed the current swung the boat into the bridge abutment which marks the south side of the 500-foot channel.

Unable To Swing

Because of the swift current boats always swing to the pier side of the channel, but usually skim through with no worse damage than a little lost paint. But this time, apparently, Pilot Eddington was unable to swing back to the center of the channel.

The barges broke loose at the impact and swept downstream, but the towboat, smashed to bits, sank immediately, with only the five men who were preparing for the next watch able to save themselves. Only a few feet of the superstructure remained above the surface.

Haas and Pierman received highest praise from Army engineers for their rescue.

"They did their job without knowing if they would get back themselves," one Army officer said.

The Alaskan game commission reports Alaska's fur trappers netted almost $1,960,000 in 1940 for the sale of 565,500 fur pelts shipped to the United States.

Hard And Cold Facts Of Strife Up To Now To Be Discussed

porters and radio commentators have pushed devastating reports through Australian and Dutch censorship indicating mismanagement of the south Pacific campaign.

They have told of time-table retreats, even such hurried withdrawals that the scorched earth policy was not applied and war materials were left uncrated at docks. All of these reports have stressed that the defenders are outnumbered 10 and 15 to 1, and that heavy reinforcements, particularly aerial, are needed badly.

The President, his associates say, is convinced that the American public generally is aware that a long, hard path lies ahead to ultimate victory, but he feels many citizens are confused. This confusion arises from the appalling magnitude of the war, and the chief executive hopes to eliminate much of this confusion in tonight's fourth major utterance since the attack on Pearl Harbor. The administration has been working for some time on a program to mobilize the entire manpower of the nation. It was possible Mr. Roosevelt may be prepared to disclose this program tonight.

Stringent measures to prevent wartime inflation likewise are in the making and may be discussed in this evening's broadcast. These measures will hit hard and soon at the pocketbook nerve.

DEFERMENT OF FARM WORKERS BEING STUDIED

The farm group was successful in writing into the recent price control bill drastic restrictions against low ceilings on farm prices, and members now charge that if the government is allowed to "dump" surplus cotton, wheat and other commodities on the market at prices below parity these restrictions will, in effect, be wiped out.

The problem of deferment for farm labor has long troubled rural legislators who contend that the drafting of men who work in the fields is placing a serious hardship on the farmers.

Members Not Pleased

Although Gen. Hershey has previously publicly assured Congress that he regards farm labor as vital to the welfare of the nation, members are far from satisfied about the situation.

"It appears that many draft boards are not giving serious thought to proper deferment," Rep. Fulmer (D) S. C., chairman of the agricultural committee, declared.

"In other words, they are drafting from the farms all of those who are eligible, regardless of the farm labor situation."

MacARTHUR AND MEN GIVEN REST BY JAP HORDES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — As the Pacific conflict entered its 12th week, an ominous lull in enemy activity on Bataan peninsula today indicated that the Japanese may be gathering all their strength for a supreme assault designed to wipe out Gen. Douglas MacArthur's outnumbered defenders.

MacArthur reported that "fighting has died down on all fronts on Luzon," and that there had been practically no enemy air or ground activity for 24 hours.

In view of the fact that the Japanese have been pouring reinforcements into the Philippines for weeks, the lull in fighting appeared to mean that they are rearranging their forces for the long promised onslaught.

Lack of fighting gave MacArthur an opportunity to celebrate Washington's birthday by awarding distinguished service stars of the Philippines to two of his high ranking American officers.

The men honored were Maj. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, of Hancock, Md., and Brig. Gen. Richard J. Marshall, of Markham, Va.

The two officers are credited with playing a major part in mapping the defense plans which to date have prevented the Japanese from completing their conquest of the Philippines.

OUTPUT OF MECHANICAL REFRIGERATORS HALTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The WPB today ordered a complete halt in production of mechanical refrigerators effective April 30, 1942. "So that the entire industry can be converted into the production of war materials."

At the same time, it issued a freezing order directing that all refrigerators produced up until April 30 to be placed in a stockpile. By that time, it was estimated a stockpile of 750,000 units will have been built up.

Refrigerators in the stockpile, it was said, "will be available only for essential civilian and military requirements." Although the order did not say so, it was generally believed that refrigerators in the stockpile, will be subject to rationing.

HILLMAN'S PLEA SENDS STRIKERS BACK TO JOBS

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—The week-old strike at the Columbian Bronze Corporation plant at Freeport ended today as nearly 300 employees returned to their benches.

Acting on a plea from Sidney Hillman, the strikers voted to return to the plant. The strikers, who are working on navy contracts, sought recognition of newly-organized unions of machinists and polishers.

Three of the strikers were ordered to appear before the local draft board 717 today for reclassification. They are at present in class 2B—deferred because of their employment.

Mrs. Madeline Harmon looks the proud mother as she poses with her two sons, both generals in Uncle Sam's army. At left is Major Gen. Millard F. Harmon, Jr., chief of air staff, Washington, and at right, Brig. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, commanding officer of the air training center at Randolph Field, Texas, where the picture was taken.

Yacht Club Men Aid

Two employees of the Southern Yacht club, Joseph Haas and William Pierman, were on a harbor boat moored 200 yards away, and rowed to the scene where they rescued five of the crew.

Saved were Woomer and Ralph Heineman, engineers, of Henderson, W. Va.; George Harrison and Ernest Easter, deckhands, of Henderson, and John W. Cain, a deck hand, of Burlington, O.

The Ohio River company, operator of the towboat and a subsidiary of the West Virginia Coal and Coke Co., listed as the victims in addition to Capt. Peter Lallance and the three women:

James Crum, Catlettsburg, Ky., mate; Kenneth McClain, Conchell, Ky., deckhand; Clarence James, Huntington, W. Va., second mate; Sam and Charles Medley, brothers, Huntington, W. Va. firemen; Hartzel Brown, Buena Vista, O., fireman; James Foulks, fireman, Huntington; Kenneth Peck, first engineer, Charles Sayre, second engineer, and H. Birchfield, deckhand, all of Henderson, W. Va.; Robert Kincaid, Portsmouth, O., deckhand, and Roy Edgington, Augusta, Ky., pilot captain.

The tragedy occurred on one of the most treacherous stretches of the 981-mile river—one which causes towboatsmen to split their tows in navigating the swift current.

The McBride left five of its nine barges, each loaded with 1,000 tons of coal from Huntington, W. Va., at the Cincinnati waterworks, a few miles upstream, and came down with four loaded barges and an empty fuel flat.

Rivermen believed the current swung the boat into the bridge abutment which marks the south side of the 500-foot channel.

Unable To Swing

Because of the swift current boats always swing to the pier side of the channel, but usually skim through with no worse damage than a little lost paint. But this time, apparently, Pilot Edgington was unable to swing back to the center of the channel.

The barges broke loose at the impact and swept downstream, but the towboat, smashed to bits, sank immediately, with only the five men who were preparing for the next watch able to save themselves. Only a few feet of the superstructure remained above the surface.

Haas and Pierman received highest praise from Army engineers for their rescue.

"They did their job without knowing if they would get back themselves," one Army officer said.

The Alaskan game commission reports Alaska's fur trappers netted almost $1,900,000 in 1940 for the sale of 565,500 fur pelts shipped to the United States.

ered to appear before the local draft board 717 today for reclassification. They are at present in class 2B—deferred because of their employment.

NATION'S WAR EFFORT TO BE AIRED TONIGHT

Hard And Cold Facts Of Strife Up To Now To Be Discussed

They have told of time-table retreats, even such hurried withdrawals that the scorched earth policy was not applied and war materials were left uncrated at docks. All of these reports have stressed that the defenders are outnumbered 10 and 15 to 1, and that heavy reinforcements, particularly aerial, are needed badly.

The President, his associates say, is convinced that the American public generally is aware that a long, hard path lies ahead to ultimate victory, but he feels many citizens are confused. This confusion arises from the appalling magnitude of the war, and the chief executive hopes to eliminate much of this confusion in tonight's fourth major utterance since the attack on Pearl Harbor. The administration has been working for some time on a program to mobilize the entire manpower of the nation. It was possible Mr. Roosevelt may be prepared to disclose this program tonight.

Stringent measures to prevent wartime inflation likewise are in the making and may be discussed in this evening's broadcast. These measures will hit hard and soon at the pocketbook nerve.

R. L. Brehmer, chairman in charge of first aid, reported that about 40 women had enrolled for the 20-hour course which opens Monday at 7:30 p. m. at Memorial hall.

There are still some men needed to fill the men's class of 35, which will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. and will be held in the council chamber.

Each class session will be two hours long, the women's classes being held on Monday and Wednesday and the men's class Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Leo Curtis of Kingston, authorized Red Cross instructor, will direct the classes for both the men and women. Chairman Brehmer said Monday that three of Circleville's industries, J. W. Eshelman and Son, Ralston Purina and Container Corporation of America each is sending two representatives to the first aid school for instruction.

Meanwhile, other Red Cross units in the county were setting up the machinery necessary for the local war effort. Carl Leist, local chapter chairman, said Monday that probably this week, he would name a chairman of home nursing.

Purpose of the home nursing division of the Red Cross will be to give instructions in treatment of illness in the home, prevention of epidemics and diseases during the war. The home nursing unit is separate and apart from the first aid unit, according to Chairman Leist and it will be organized and directed by registered nurses.

Red Cross production committees likewise were beginning to function in turning out materials for the Army. One hundred pounds of yarn, which arrived in Circleville last week, will be made into scarfs. Mrs. W. E. Caskey, chairman of the knitting committee, reported Monday that she was expecting yarn for sweaters to arrive shortly.

ASHVILLE

Those frisky robins which were having such a gay, good time with their chirp and songs back along the old mill race hollow a week ago have either closed up or got out, according to the nearby neighbors in that territory. A pair of red birds has remained there during the winter. And in the bird line, the thousands of crows which hold their camp meeting in a timbered section of woodland up near Madison school have not yet put in an appearance for their spring meeting.

Two public, farm-chattel sales are to be held soon in the not far out places. That of W. A. Duvall on the St. Paul road, next Thursday, the 26th, and the Mrs. S. M. Smith sale, March 6. As auctioneer, Walter Bumgarner is in charge of both.

The mover-outs, who according to orders, must have their moving done off the airplane field by Saturday last have in most part moved their personal belongings from their once farms and homes. Work, and much of it, will begin there on the project, now soon, according to word given out here Friday.

William Cromley has purchased the Prindle brick dwelling on Cromley street, formerly known as the Rhoades property, and will make needed repairs. Harvey Barr and family, Madison township, now occupy the place. Mr. Barr will assist in seeing that things get done right about the Cromley farm.

Mrs. Lillie Brinker, Scioto township, is now a resident of Ashville, occupying the Mrs. Gardner dwelling on Cromley street.

The exact time and day for the second Ashville registration of civilian war helpers, has not been named but likely will be by tomorrow or Wednesday. Keep in close touch with this column each evening.

BOY, 11, KILLED IN ACCIDENT AS BIKE HITS TRUCK

An 11-year-old boy was killed instantly Sunday when he rode his bicycle into the side of a truck-trailer at Canal Winchester.

The youth was Jerry Stebleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stebleton, Canal Winchester. The truck was driven by William Bradford, 46, Columbus, who operates a coal hauling business.

The boy's bicycle collided with the truck as it crossed the intersection on a green traffic light. He suffered from a crushed head and chest when the wheels of the truck passed over him, officers said.

Jerry was the oldest of three children. His father is a partner in a hardware company in Canal Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Arley Barnhart and their son, Floyd, and three daughters, Bertha, Emma and Anna Belle, of Ashville suffered injuries Sunday when their car was involved in a head-on collision with the car of Berman Calvert of Ashville two miles south of Canal Winchester. They were taken to Mercy hospital, Columbus for treatment, where Mrs. Barnhart, Floyd and Emma remained Monday.

Both cars involved in the accident were badly damaged and were towed into Canal Winchester.

ATTACK THE ATTACKERS

EXPERT views in general, about the war, seem to boil down to this:

Few wars have been won by merely defensive tactics, and in modern warfare the advantage lies more and more with attack. Hit the enemy hard, keep on hitting them and keep them on the run. Losses may be great at first. But lives, time, property and country are likely to be saved in the end, and saved more quickly than by devious strategy or standing pat.

It is by such procedure that the aggressors have accomplished their big and rapid gains in this war. They have had the advantage, of course, in most cases, by being better prepared than their victims and having no scruples, but that isn't the whole story. By their bold attack they have got the jump on those who waited to be attacked, and thus forced their victims into retreat or surrender.

Americans should readily understand this procedure because it is so familiar on our own football fields. We hope to see more aggressive action on our side from now on.

MUST EARN THE DOLLAR

IT'S SURPRISING what a difference a dollar can make, even in these days of easy money. War Production Man Donald Nelson has been conducting a purge on that economic level. From now on, it is reported, anybody who isn't getting as much as a dollar a year, or isn't considered worth that much, will be fired, or at least forbidden to make important decisions. All dollar-a-year men are thoroughly investigated, and in order to earn their pay they have to be "of outstanding experience and ability, qualified for a responsible administrative, technical, consulting or advisory position."

It's well to have all this carefully worked out and thoroughly understood. And there's some logic in the additional requirement that the dollar-a-year employee must have a non-governmental income not less than $5,600 a year. With the latter he can eat and buy government bonds.

TORPEDOINGS by Axis, presumably German, submarines of oil tankers in Caribbean waters and the shelling, by the same fleet of U-2s, of the Dutch West Indian island of Aruba may turn out to have been in the interest of Pan-American solidarity. That is being suggested at the state department by officials who have been closely identified with the campaign to tie the western hemispherical countries tightly together.

It was a raid, it's argued, that was calculated to prove to them all how much nearer to them war activities are than maybe they believed them to be.

It's true that the mainland was not attacked and Aruba is Dutch, not Latin-American. Nevertheless the thrust was right into a Latin-American pond, in entire disregard of what the Latins might think of it. Moreover Aruba's big industry is the refinement of Latin-American oil and it isn't deemed likely that the Latins will approve of the notion of having one of their important products bombed in transit to customers who are due to pay them well for it. Finally, one of the torpedoes was Venezuelan. Its owners must be exceptional folk if they didn't resent having it fired on.

The outrage occurred, too, at a kind of a fortunate juncture. Not many days previously Caudillo Franco of Spain, a warm friend, though not yet an actual ally of Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini, had predicted that at least 1,000,000 Spaniards would volunteer to fight for the Nazis if there seemed any danger of their defeat by the United Powers.

He May Be Right
It isn't safe to assert that Francisco was wrong in hazarding this guess. Spain is sharply divided. It has a large element that classifies as democratic or even more radically. Another formidable element, however, is and always has been extremely hostile to proletarianism. I have guessed that they'd divide about 50-50. Grabbing at an opportune moment, the proletarians gained control of the Madrid government, as republicans. They were, in fact, considerably more pronounced than that and probably overdid matters. Taking advantage of resultant dissatisfaction, General Franco started a totalitarian revolt. It was a doubtful civil war and the general might not have won it but for the help he received from Fuehrer Hitler and Duce Mussolini. With their assistance, though, he succeeded in overthrowing the so-called republic and slid in as Caudillo.

Considering the evenness of the Spanish balance and his followers' obligations to the Nazis and Fascists, it seems not improbable that the Caudillo divined an exaggeration, saying that 1,000,000 of his crowd would spring to the Axis' aid in an emergency.

BIG LAND SALE
WASHINGTON — A highly interesting transaction whereby the Republican National Committeeman for Oregon sold the Government a big tract of land for a new Government aluminum plant has just come to the attention of the Justice Department.

Officially the name of Ralph H. Cake, Republican National Committeeman, did not appear in the transaction.

However, the records show that Ralph Cake, who owned the tract of land, deeded it to the Portland Mortgage Company of which he is president and chief owner, for the nominal sum of $10. Later the Portland Mortgage Company sold the land to the Government for $80,000.

One other interesting phase of the whole business was the fact that the Interior Department was dead opposed to this location of the new aluminum plant. The plant is one of the wartime aluminum factories built by the Government, but to be operated by Alcoa for the production of emergency aluminum. It will get power from Bonneville Dam.

The Interior Department, which operates Bonneville Dam, proposed that the plant be located near the dam. This would save expensive power transmission lines, also would put the plant further inland, away from coastal attack.

The Interior Department put up a vigorous argument on this point. But the Alcoa people, plus certain interests in the War Department argued for the other site. The debate continued some time. But in the end, Mr. Cake's Mortgage Company made a lush sale.

NAZI SABOTAGE

In fixing blame for the Normandie fire and other suspicious tragedies, it might be well to review the sabotage fire at Kingsland, N. J., in 1917, for which an international court held Germany responsible.

The Kingsland Plant was making shells for Russia at the rate of 3,000,000 per month. Later it was testified that a workman named Wozniak had spilled a pan of alcohol over his bench just before the blaze started. There was also evidence regarding the use of incendiary pencils — pencils containing one-half sulphuric acid, one-half chlorate of potassium and sugar; so when the pencil is broken and the two parts mixed, a white hot flame spurts forth.

The U. S. Government charged that Wozniak, a Russian who had served in the Australian Army, was hired by a German agent named Himsch to use incendiary pencils to start the fire.

Today, Wozniak is still in the United States.

Methods of Treatment By the Action of Drugs

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SOME OF my friends told me when my articles on the use of water in treatment appeared that I should follow up that idea and give my readers more about methods of treatment, so this is an attempt to do so. I want to try to explain something about the theory of the action of drugs.

Our public school system is still in the thralldom of the Middle Ages. It would be far more useful for high school students, instead of studying the classics and history, to continue their courses in physiology and take a course in the action of drugs and pathology — pathology being the science of the changes that occur in the body cells in disease.

An elementary course in physiology is a good foundation, but it really needs to be followed up with a discussion of the body in disease and methods of treating it. Most of the misconceptions which people have about their bodily diseases are due to lack of this fundamental knowledge.

The action of drugs depends upon an entirely different theory than the action of foods. Both drugs and foods are absorbed from the digestive tract and we are apt to think that because we swallow both of them, they have the same fundamental basis of action, but foods do not modify the body functions fundamentally.

Actions of Foods
Foods are chemically the same substance as the tissues of our bodies. They can change the energy balance; for instance, if you begin to do the work of a day laborer when you have been on the diet of a bookkeeper, you either have to have more food or use your body tissue or else you have to quit doing the work of the day laborer.

Drugs act by changing the physiological reactions of the body. For instance, a cathartic works by increasing the peristaltic movements of the intestines. Food roughage does this too, by simply furnishing more bulk. The cathartic acts on the nerves and muscular tissues of the intestines and stimulates them to contraction chemically rather than by furnishing bulk, although there are some bulk cathartics.

Again, in a child who has the croup, it is possible by the use of drugs to stop the action of the glands which secrete mucus into the wind pipe and thus help to stop the overaction and dry up the secretions. We have drugs that work on the physiology of the heart, of the nervous system, of the eye, of the distribution of the blood in the body and so forth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
L. R. E.—What is the disease known as multiple sclerosis? Can anything be done for it?
Answer: Multiple sclerosis is a disease of the nervous system of a chronic nature, in which portions of the nervous system become sclerotic or hardened. It runs a very uneven course, with periods of improvement, sometimes complete recovery. Massage, heat and nourishing foods are the only valuable treatments.

CHAPTER ONE

THEY WERE moving slowly up the theater aisle when Walter Kirkwood asked:

"Would you like to go backstage and meet them?"

The girl made a sudden stop. "You mean you know August Drake and Larry Peyton?" Her brown eyes were enormous with doubt.

Walter's freckled face crinkled into smiles as he took her elbow and propelled her forward once more. "You're not at all flattered, Anette. Yes, I know August quite well and Larry decidedly well." They were in the lobby now. Cold waves of air swept toward them from the street. "I could claim we were together in prep school or some such tale—actually, we were newsboy pals."

"But you can me," Walter smiled a second time, a smile without much humor. "Again I say, you're not at all flattered."

They entered the alley leading to the stage entrance, a narrow, dirty, depressing passageway. Icy winds, product of Chicago's Lake Michigan, swept grit into their faces. Anette tightened her worn leopard sport coat about her and dropped her chin into its comforting collar. Further sarcasm tinged Walter's voice as he shouted above the frigid gale. "I suppose you can't imagine Laurence Peyton's ever having walked through this filthy alley, either?"

The girl did not answer until they were inside the heavy stage door. Then she said, "Sassy critter, aren't you?"

Walter gave her a one-sided grin. "Nope. Just wondering if I'm doing the right thing." He learned the location of Larry Peyton's dressing room from a less-grumpy-than-usual doorman, and they headed down a dank-smelling, cement cavern past a few minor actors, stagehands and other visitors.

"Peyton in his room?" Walter inquired of the heavily bearded character actor who had played August Drake's father.

"Is he?" the elderly man exclaimed. With a firm clutch on their elbows he escorted the visiting pair a few feet and stopped before a closed door. Then, in absurd contrast to his air of dignity, he made the vulgar motion of slitting his throat with his forefinger.

"Miss Drake is paying him a call." At that instant, August Drake's voice beat toward them, not the well-known dulcet tones of the famous star, but loud ones of unmistakable rage. The character actor cringed in simulated fear and left hurriedly.

Walter opened the door just as Anette protested, "Maybe we shouldn't."

"Don't be foolish. Of course we should. There is no possible moment when actors don't want an audience." He pushed her ahead of him into the chintz-decorated, none-too-clean dressing room, where they halted and leaned against the cold wall.

August Drake, still wearing the silver-foam, naughtily bare-backed gown of the final scene, stood beside Laurence Peyton's makeup shelf. "And the next time you plant your hand over my cheek in that last love scene I'm going to bite it. Until the blood comes." She snatched his hand, greasy with theatrical cold cream, and spread the fingers. "Look at it!" she demanded, swinging to Anette and Walter as if they had been participants in the entire disagreement. "What good does it do me to act with that thing in front of my face? No one can see me." She slung it from her like so much trash.

Then, as if the guests had just entered, she inquired with friendly concern, "How are you, anyway, Walter? And look the door, so no one else can get in."

Walter obliged, then said with emphasis, "I'm fine. But you probably have disillusioned my little friend for life. Up to now she's had ideas about being an actress." He pushed his companion to a padded stool beside the leading lady. "August, this is Anette Winslow."

The actress' lovely face melted into a distinctly professional but very sweet smile. "Pretty," she murmured by way of a greeting.

Anette blushed. Walter was making the second introduction. "Larry Peyton in the looking glass, Anette."

With that, the actor turned from the makeup mirror for the first time. He also smiled a sunbeam smile and murmured, "Beautiful, you mean." Again Anette blushed.

For a long moment Laurence Peyton stared at her, then swung about to greet his childhood friend. "Walter, by golly, but I'm glad to see you. It's been too damned long." Anette noticed that the eyes of both men glinted as they clasped hands. "Why haven't you caught the show before? I've left passes every night since we opened, and I've invited you to all the parties."

Walter sat down on the edge of a worn davenport. "I've been much too busy, Larry. You know how it is with a doctor trying to carve a name for himself."

August giggled. "And you do mean carve?"

"Miss Drake must have her clever joke," derided Larry. "Seriously, wait, why do you work so hard? Why don't you get smart? The appendix of a Gold Coast three-chinned dower can't be any messier than a Clark street waif. You could be a Lake Shore doctor. I'll admit you're no Apollo, but you do have a Huckleberry Finn charm."

Walter cut in. "Thanks, pal, but I'm completely happy at the clinic. That's your fourteenth cigarette today." August blurted as Larry reached for a cigaret. "You should know now what they do to your voice."

Larry Peyton spoke to her in the mirror. "So now you're telling me how to talk," he said through tightly clenched teeth. "First, you fuss about my performance, a beautiful, sentimental performance. Then you fuss about my smoking—why don't you go to your own dressing room and leave me with my guests?"

"I'm not leaving until you promise to be so blanket my best acting." She snapped from her chair and leaned close to the makeup shelf. Once more she appealed to her

ATTACK THE ATTACKERS

EXPERT views in general, about the war,
seem to boil down to this:

Few wars have been won by merely defensive tactics, and in modern warfare the advantage lies more and more with attack. Hit the enemy hard, keep on hitting them and keep them on the run. Losses may be great at first. But lives, time, property and country are likely to be saved in the end, and saved more quickly than by devious strategy or standing pat.

It is by such procedure that the aggressors have accomplished their big and rapid gains in this war. They have had the advantage, of course, in most cases, by being better prepared than their victims and having no scruples, but that isn't the whole story. By their bold attack they have got the jump on those who waited to be attacked, and thus forced their victims into retreat or surrender.

Americans should readily understand this procedure because it is so familiar on our own football fields. We hope to see more aggressive action on our side from now on.

Foods are chemically the same substance as the tissues of our bodies. They can change the energy balance; for instance, if you begin to do the work of a day laborer when you have been on the diet of a bookkeeper, you either have to have more food, or use your body tissue or else you have to quit doing the work of the day laborer.

Drugs act by changing the physiological reactions of the body. For instance, a cathartic works by increasing the peristaltic movements of the intestines. Food roughage does this too, by simply furnishing more bulk. The cathartic acts on the nerves and muscular tissues of the intestines and stimulates them to contraction chemically rather than by furnishing bulk.

Inspired by Hitler?

The suspicion here is, though, that Francisco omitted his blast, not so much because it meant anything, as because he was inspired by Herr Hitler to do it, for the sake of its hoped-for influence in Latin America.

The Axis fifth columnist's contributions haven't been very effective there.

The Germans, among the new world Latins, are numerous in spots, but they and the Latins don't harmonize well; they're too different from one another. The Italians harmonize, they do it too completely; they don't stay Italian; they become localized. The Japs remain Japper than even the Germans remain German.

The Axis theory evidently is that what an outstanding Spaniard says will count more with Spaniards than all anybody else can say, including the Yankees and all others. This may not be true in Brazil, which is Portuguese. Still, Spaniards and Portuguese are pretty close relatives.

And it's the truth that Caudillo Franco's Falangist agents have been a worse nuisance in our southern world than all the Nazis, Fascists and Japs put together.

Now, along comes a Nazi U-boat fleet and, it's to be hoped, with one timely raid, knocks on the head all that El Caudillo enunciated, by demonstrating what had company he is in.

CHAPTER ONE

THEY WERE moving slowly up the theater aisle when Walter Kirkwood asked:

"Would you like to go backstage and meet them?"

The girl made a sudden stop. "You mean you know August Drake and Larry Peyton?" Her brown eyes were enormous with doubt.

Walter's freckled face crinkled into smiles as he took her elbow and propelled her forward once more. "You're not at all flattered, Anette. Yes, I know August quite well and Larry decidedly well." They were in the lobby now. Cold waves of air swept toward them from the street. "I could claim we were together in prep school or some such tale—actually, we were newsboy pals."

"But you can me." Walter smiled a second time, a smile without much humor. "Again I say, you're not at all flattered."

They entered the alley leading to the stage entrance, a narrow, dirty, depressing passageway. Icy winds, product of Chicago's Lake Michigan, swept grit into their faces. Anette tightened her worn leopard sport coat about her and dropped her chin into its comforting collar.

Further sarcasm tinged Walter's voice as he shouted above the frigid gale. "I suppose you can't imagine Laurence Peyton's ever having walked through this filthy alley, either?"

The girl did not answer until they were inside the heavy stage door. Then she said, "Sassy critter, aren't you?"

Walter gave her a one-sided grin. "Nope. Just wondering if I'm doing the right thing." He learned the location of Larry Peyton's dressing room from a less-grumpy-than-usual doorman, and they headed down a dank-smelling, cement cavern past a few minor actors, stagehands and other visitors.

"Peyton in his room?" Walter inquired of the heavily bearded character actor who had played August Drake's father.

"Is he?" the elderly man exclaimed. With a firm clutch on their elbows he escorted the visiting pair a few feet and stopped before a closed door. Then, in absurd contrast to his air of dignity, he made the vulgar motion of slitting his throat with his forefinger.

"Miss Drake is paying him a call." At that instant August Drake's voice beat toward them, not the well-known dulcet tones of the famous star, but loud ones of unmistakable rage. The character actor cringed in simulated fear and left hurriedly.

Walter opened the door just as Anette protested, "Maybe we shouldn't."

"Don't be foolish. Of course we should. There is no possible moment when actors don't want an audience." He pushed her ahead of him into the chintz-decorated, none-too-clean dressing room, where they halted and leaned against the cold wall.

August Drake, still wearing the silver-foam, naughtily bare-backed gown of the final scene, stood beside Laurence Peyton's makeup shelf. "And the next time you plant your hand over my cheek in that last love scene I'm going to bite it. Until the blood comes." She snatched his hand, greasy with theatrical cold cream, and spread the fingers. "Look at it!" she demanded, swinging to Anette and Walter as if they had been participants in the entire disagreement.

"What good does it do me to act with that thing in front of my face? No one can see me." She slung it from her like so much trash.

Then, as if the guests had just entered, she inquired with friendly concern, "How are you, anyway, Walter? And look the door, so no one else can get in."

Walter obliged, then said with emphasis, "I'm fine. But you probably have disillusioned my little friend for life. Up to now she's had ideas about being an actress." He pushed his companion to a padded stool beside the leading lady. "Anette, this is Anette Winslow."

The actress' lovely face melted into a distinctly professional but very sweet smile. "Pretty," she murmured by way of a greeting.

Anette blushed. Walter was making the second introduction. "Larry Peyton in the looking glass, Anette."

With that, the actor turned from the makeup mirror for the first time. He also smiled a sunbeam smile and murmured, "Beautiful, you mean." Again Anette blushed.

For a long moment Laurence Peyton stared at her, then swung about to greet his childhood friend. "Walter, by golly, but I'm glad to see you. It's been too darned long."

Anette noticed that the eyes of both men glistened as they clasped hands. "Why haven't you caught the show before? I've left passes every night since we opened, and I've invited you to all the parties."

Walter cut down on the edge of a worn davenport. "I've been much too busy, Larry. You know how it is with a doctor trying to carve a name for himself."

August giggled. "And you do mean carve?"

"Miss Drake must have her clever joke," decided Larry. "Seriously, wait, why do you work so hard? Why don't you get smart?" The appendix of a Gold Coast three-chinned davenport can't be any messier than a Clark street waif's. You could be a Lake Shore doctor. I'll admit you're no Apollo, but you do have a Huckleberry Finn charm."

Walter cut in. "Thanks, pal, but I'm completely happy at the clinic."

"That's your fourteenth cigarette today," August blurted as Larry reached for a cigarette. "You should know now what they do to your voice."

Larry Peyton spoke to her in the mirror. "So now you're telling me how to talk?" He said through tightly clenched teeth. "First, you fuss about my performance, a beautiful, sentimental performance. Then you fuss about my smoking—why don't you go to your own dressing room and leave me with my guests?"

"I'm not leaving until you promise not to blanket my best acting." She snapped from her chair and leaned close to the makeup shelf.

Once more she appealed to her guests. "This is Anette Winslow."

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

No. 38
BAD DEBTS—METHOD OF DEDUCTION

Bad debts constitute a considerable item in the returns of many taxpayers and may be treated in one of two ways—either by deduction from gross income in respect to debts ascertained to be worthless either in whole or in part and charged off, or by a deduction of a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. Taxpayers were given an option for 1921 to select either of the two methods. The method used in the return for 1921 must be used in returns for subsequent years unless permission is granted by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to change to the other method. Application to change must be made at least 30 days prior to the close of the taxable year for which the change is to be effective. However, a taxpayer filing a first return for 1941 may select either of the two methods, subject to the approval of the Commissioner upon examination of the return. Permission to adopt the reserve method is limited to taxpayers having a large number of accounts where credit is extended over a considerable period of time. It is not granted for the purpose of handling one specific debt.

What constitutes a "reasonable addition" to a reserve for bad debts must be determined in the light of the facts, and will vary as between classes of business and with conditions of business prosperity. It will depend primarily upon the total amount of debits outstanding as of the close of the taxable year, those arising currently as well as those arising in prior taxable years, and the total amount of the existing reserve. In case subsequent realizations upon outstanding debts prove to be more or less than estimated at the time of the creation of the existing reserve, the amount of the excess of inadequacy in the existing reserve should be reflected in the determination of the reasonable addition necessary in the taxable year. A taxpayer using the reserve method should show in his return the volume of charge sales (or other business transactions) for the year, and the percentage of the reserve to such amount, the total amount of notes and accounts receivable at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and the total amount of the debts ascertained to be worthless and charged against the reserve during the taxable year.

GREAT RUNNERS TO MEET NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—Another of the year's major indoor track meets will be staged at Madison Square garden next Saturday, when stars from all over the nation will gather for the national A.A.U. championships and for the inevitable chance to beat Greg Rice and Leslie MacMillan.

They both will be running in the nationals—Rice at three miles and MacMillan in his mile specialty as usual—after keeping intact their record strings last Saturday night in the New York A.C. games.

Rice has run three miles twice this winter, besides carrying on as a record-holding two-miler, and will be seeking to lower the record for the longer distance which also is his indoors.

In all, 10 winners will defend their titles in the meet and record performances in some instances seem almost certain, in keeping with developments of recent times showing that in virtually every meet old standards are torn apart.

While Rice and MacMillan failed to run to new records while winning last Saturday night, a new performance for the books was uncovered nevertheless, when Al Ribolt, of Colgate, clipped, a half second from a five-year old indoor standard by running the 500 in 57.1.

John Borian, the Negro portrait painter, equalled a 15-year old mark in the 880 with a 1:54.4 run.

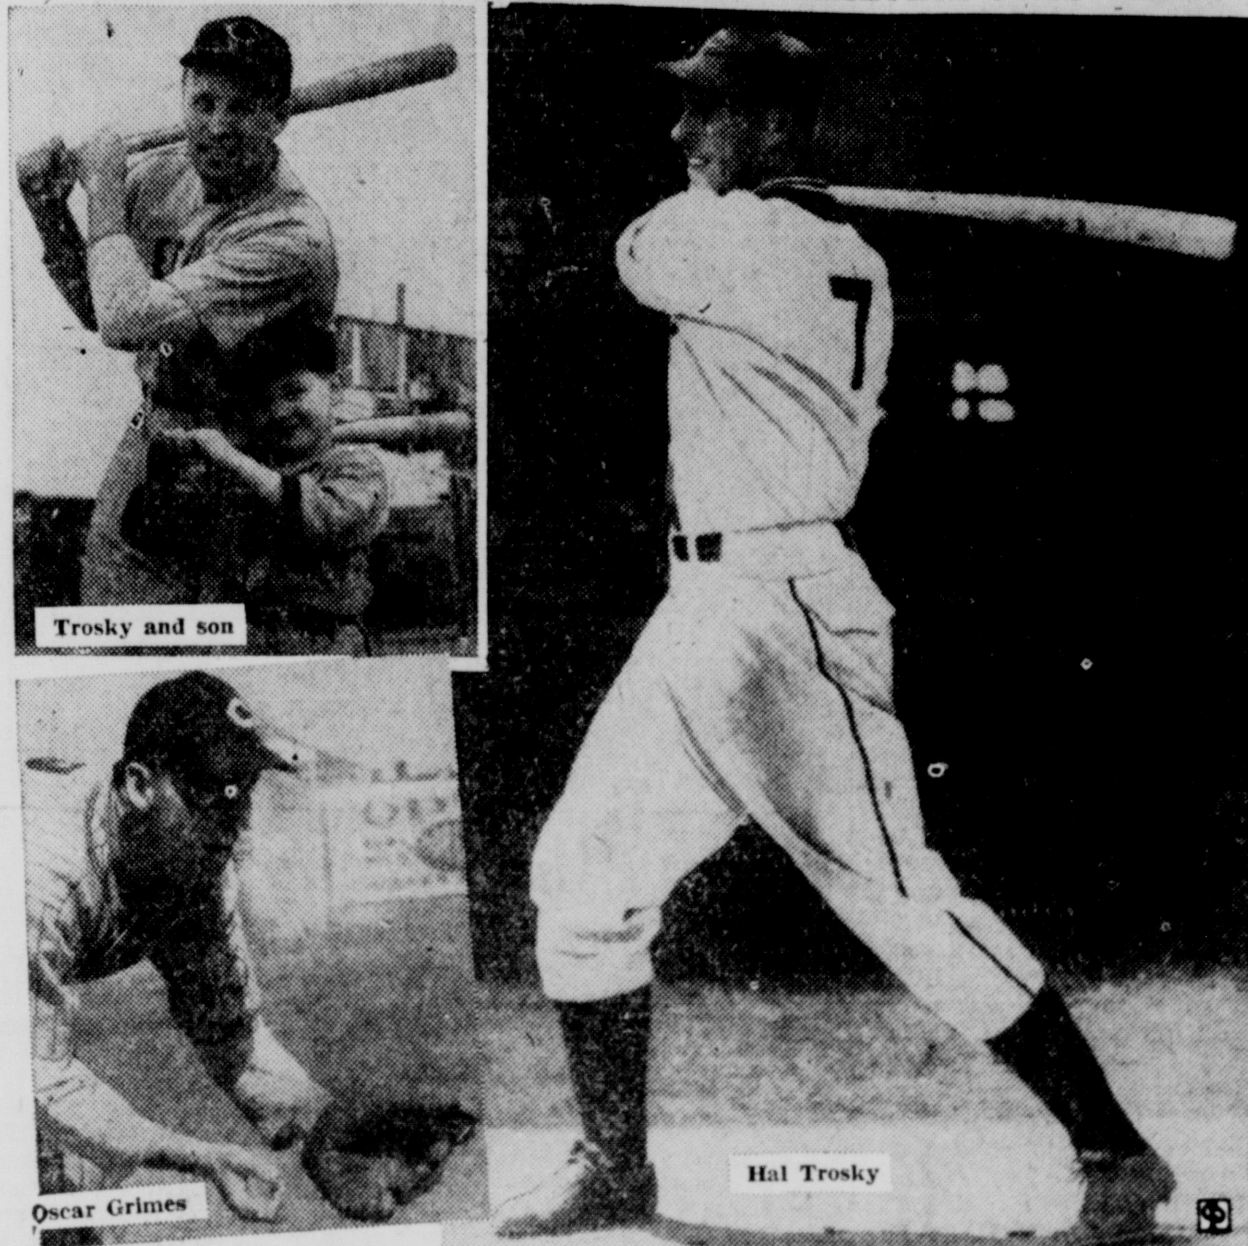

night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Wright and Mrs. Anna Boots.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Skinner of Lewisburg visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Skinner and daughter Betty and Mrs. Margaret Flesher and daughter Evelyn and son Dale.

Harry Shepherd of Mt. Sterling and Miss Leah Binns were Sunday evening visitors at the home of Harry Simpson and Daughter Jean and son Charles of Leesburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Canup were guest players when members of the Euchre club gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bush Saturday evening for their bi-monthly party. Winners of the prizes were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mills and other members attending were Mr. and Mrs. Willard Evans, Mr. and Mrs. John Farmer Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Matthews. The hosts were assisted in the serving of refreshments following the game by their daughter Miss Mary Anise.

TROSKY, INDIAN STAR, OUT OF BASEBALL THIS YEAR

One of the leading first basemen in the major leagues for several years, Harold Arthur Trosky, of the Cleveland Indians, announces he is through with baseball for this year. Trosky has been bothered with headaches for some time and last year he had to leave the club before the end of the season. Trosky, at his home in Norway, Ia., disclosed he may return to baseball in 1943 if he feels better. Trosky, 29 years old, joined the Tribe in 1933, coming from Toledo, where he had batted .323. Previously he had been with Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Quincy and Burlington. In nine years with the Indians, Trosky batted .313. His best year was in 1936 when he averaged .343 and led the league in runs-batted-in. His home run bat has won many games for the Tribe. Among those mentioned as possible successors to the big first baseman is Oscar Grimes, infielder with the Tribe for four seasons.

Washington And Walnut, Pickaway And Scioto To Meet In County Event

Pickaway county basketball tournament survivors were sifted down to four varsity teams and two reserve teams Monday following a thrilling week end which saw some brilliant basketball put into the record book.

As the survivors await the semi-final session scheduled for Friday evening on the Perry township court, Washington township, the tournament darkhorse by virtue of its victory over the favored Ashville team, was pitted against Walnut township, and Pickaway was matched with Scioto, the latter two crews winning their games Saturday night to advance to the semi-finals.

The Washington-Walnut joust will start at 8 o'clock Friday and the Pickaway-Scioto contest will get under way at 10, following a consolation game between reserve teams from Pickaway and Walnut.

Pickaway turned back Darby, 26-20, in one of the best played games of the tourney. The contest was slow at the start, but both teams were handling the ball in efficient style and neither was sacrificing possession by firing at difficult shots. Pickaway was ahead 3-2 at the quarter, and 9-7 at halftime, moving seven points out in front as the last quarter started, 17 to 10.

Top scorers were Immelt for Pickaway with 11 and Liff for Darby with 10.

Scioto put on a fast last quarter rally to turn back the fighting Monroe team, 29-19, after being forced all the way.

The Commercial Club boys, paced by the brilliant Elwin Beavers, was held 7-7 at the quarter and 13-12 at the half. Only two points separated the teams at 19-17 as the final canto began, but Scioto got hot in the last session to win going away. Beavers hit for 15 points, while Willoughby chalked up nine for the losers.

Ashville's great freshman team had little trouble in advancing to the tourney reserve finals, winning 35-20 from Walnut's fighting lads.

The Bronko juniors grabbed a 12-3 lead at the quarter and marched to a 21-8 margin at halftime. The third quarter mark was 29-12.

Messick, Miller and Young hit for 12, 10 and eight points, respectively, for the winners, with

ILLINI TO FACE TOUGH BADGERS IN VITAL GAME

Doug Mills And His Boys Likened To Yankees Of Baseball Fame

By Graham Hovey

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—It was the 1942 Big Ten basketball campaign which roared into its semifinal week today, but in many respects it looked instead like the American league chase in the closing stages of the 1941 baseball season.

Out in front, and breezing along toward a certain championship was the Illinois team of Doug Mills—in some respects one of the most unusual teams in the last decade of Big Ten basketball history. The Illini would be the New York Yankees, of course.

And at the other end of the ladder were the Chicago Maroons, the "Philadelphia Athletics" of Big Ten basketball. Michigan, Ohio State and Northwestern could be placed in the St. Louis Brown-Washington Senator classification. The other five teams—Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Purdue—were in the throes of a furious battle for second place and other first division berths, just as the Red Sox, the White Sox, the Tigers and Indians were last fall.

In the wake of their tenth victory out of 11 conference starts, the pace-setting Illini will entertain Wisconsin's Badgers at Champaign in one of three important contests tonight. The Illini whipped Ohio State Saturday by a comfortable 48 to 31 margin, despite a mild slump during the early stages. Wisconsin made it seven out of 11 by beating Northwestern, 59 to 47.

Another game having a vital bearing on the torrid fight for second place will be the Indiana-Iowa meeting at Iowa City.

The Hoosiers are holding the runner-up spot at present with eight wins in 11 games and the Hawkeyes remained in a fourth-place tie Saturday by turning back Michigan, 59 to 38, for their seventh victory in 11 games. Plying on their own court, the Iowans might trim Branch McCracken's boys and thus achieve a deadlock for second place.

Purdue vs. Northwestern at Evanston will be the third contest influencing the first division battle. The Boilermakers should win their eighth game in 12 starts, but the Wildcats, who are doomed to a spot higher than the seventh, might spring an upset if to Graham and Russ Wenland are "hot" simultaneously.

ONLY FEW OF ATHLETIC REGULARS IN TRAINING

ANAHEIM, Calif., Feb. 23 — Manager Connie Mack cracked the whip over his group of embryo 1942 Athletics today as the squad settled down to a routine of full-time spring drills in preparation for the American league pennant race.

Mack revealed that of eight regulars who held first-string jobs last season, exclusive of pitchers, only one is in camp. Three stars—First Baseman Dick Seibert, and Outfielders Bob Johnson and Make Kreevich—are still unsigned.

Connie was encouraged, however, by Coach Earle Brucker's report that the hurling staff "looks good" technically and physically.

GREAT RUNNERS TO MEET NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—Another of the year's major indoor track meets will be staged at Madison Square garden next Saturday, when stars from all over the nation will gather for the national A.A.U. championships and for the inevitable chance to beat Greg Rice and Leslie MacMichell.

They both will be running in the nationals—Rice at three miles and MacMichell in his mile specialty as usual—after keeping intact their record strings last Saturday night in the New York A.C. games.

Rice has run three miles twice this winter, besides carrying on as a record-holder two-miler, and will be seeking to lower the record for the longer distance which also is his indoors.

In all, 10 winners will defend their titles in the meet and record performances in some instances seem almost certain, in keeping with developments of recent times showing that in virtually every meet old standards are torn apart.

While Rice and MacMichell failed to run to new records while winning last Saturday night, a new performance for the books was uncovered nevertheless, when Al Ribbott, of Colgate, clipped, a half second from a five-year old indoor standard by running the 500 in 57.1.

John Borican, the Negro portrait painter, equalled a 15-year old mark in the 880 with a 1:54.4 run.

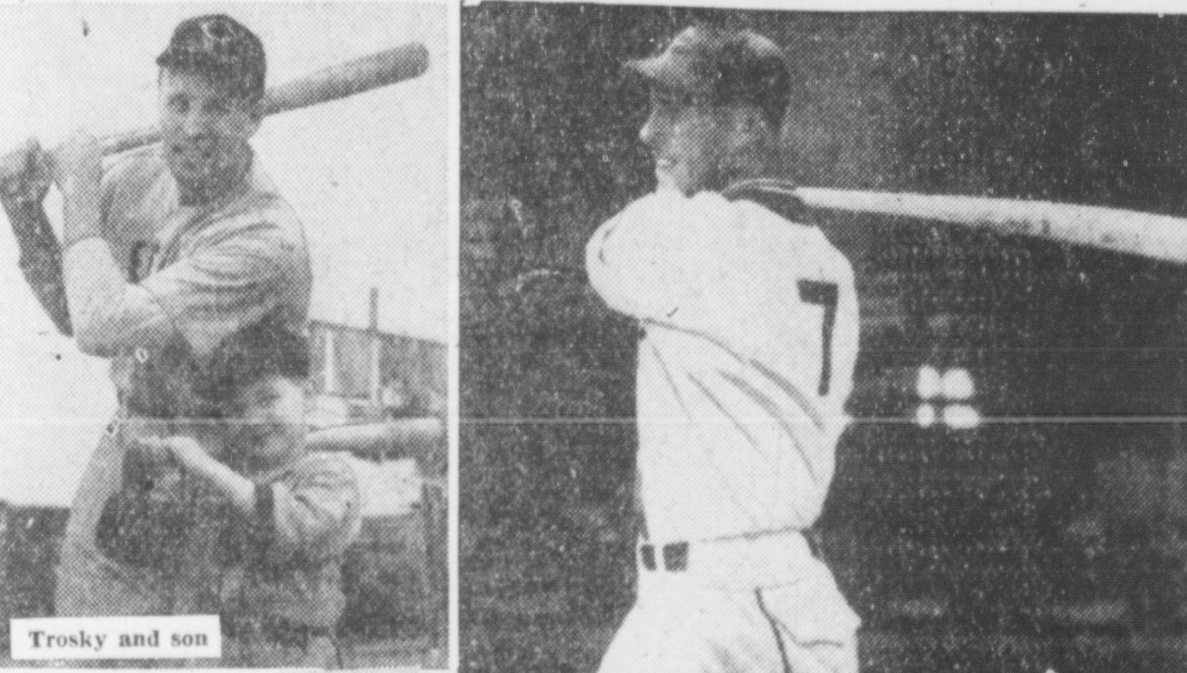

night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ercell Wright and Mrs. Anna Boots.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Skinner of Lewisburg visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Skinner and daughter Betty and Mrs. Margaret Flesher and daughter Evelyn and son Dale.

Harry Shepherd of Mt. Sterling and Miss Leah Binn were Sunday evening visitors at the home of Harry Simpson and Daughter Jean and son Charles of Leesburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Canup were guest players when members of the Euchre club gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bush Saturday evening for their bi-monthly party. Winners of the prizes were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Evans, Mr. and Mrs. John Farmer Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Matthews. The hosts were assisted in the serving of refreshments following the game by their daughter Miss Mary Anise.

TROSKY, INDIAN STAR, OUT OF BASEBALL THIS YEAR

Trosky and son

Oscar Grimes

One of the leading first basemen in the major leagues for several years, Harold Arthur Trosky, of the Cleveland Indians, announces he is through with baseball for this year. Trosky has been bothered with headaches for some time and last year he had to leave the club before the end of the season. Trosky, at his home in Norway, Ia., disclosed he may return to baseball in 1943 if he feels better. Trosky, 29 years old, joined the Tribe in 1933, coming from Toledo, where he had batted .323. Previously he had been with Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Quincy and Burlington. In nine years with the Indians, Trosky batted .313. His best year was in 1936 when he averaged .343 and led the league in runs-batted-in. His home run bat has won many games for the Tribe. Among those mentioned as possible successors to the big first baseman is Oscar Grimes, infielder with the Tribe for four seasons.

Washington And Walnut, Pickaway And Scioto To Meet In County Event

Pickaway county basketball tournament survivors were sifted down to four varsity teams and two reserve teams Monday following a thrilling week end which saw some brilliant basketball put into the record book.

As the survivors await the semi-final session scheduled for Friday evening on the Perry township court, Washington township, the tournament darkhorse by virtue of its victory over the favored Ashville team, was pitted against Walnut township, and Pickaway was matched with Scioto, the latter two crews winning their games Saturday night to advance to the semi-finals.

The Washington-Walnut bout will start at 8 o'clock Friday and the Pickaway-Scioto contest will follow.

Foul shooting percentage in the Pickaway county tournament is far below par up to this point. Out of 409 attempts only 121 have been converted, making the percentage just a little better than one out of three.

get under way at 10, following a consolation game between reserve teams from Pickaway and Walnut.

Pickaway turned back Darby, 26-20, in one of the best played games of the tourney. The contest was slow at the start, but both teams were handling the ball in efficient style and neither was sacrificing possession by firing at difficult shots. Pickaway was ahead 3-2 at the quarter, and 9-7 at halftime, moving seven points out in front as the last quarter started, 17 to 10.

Top scorers were Immelt for Pickaway with 11 and Liff for Darby with 10.

Scioto put on a fast last quarter rally to turn back the fighting Monroe team, 29-19, after being forced all the way.

The Commercial Point boys, paced by the brilliant Elwin Beavers, was held 7-7 at the quarter and 13-12 at the half. Only two points separated the teams at 19-17 as the final canto began, but Scioto got hot in the last session to win going away. Beavers hit for 15 points, while Willoughby chalked up nine for the losers.

Ashville's great freshman team had little trouble in advancing to the tourney reserve finals, winning 35-20 from Walnut's fighting lads.

The Bronko juniors grabbed a 12-3 lead at the quarter and marched to a 21-8 margin at halftime. The third quarter mark was 29-12.

Messick, Millar and Young hit for 12, 10 and eight points, respectively, for the winners, with

INITIAL TRAINING CAMP CASUALTY IN CUB RANKS

AVALON, Cal., Feb. 23—Paul Erickson, Chicago Cubs' first casualty in the spring training camp on Catalina island, today was nursing a broken nose suffered from a fall.

Saturday night's crowd was overflowing, and gave a fair indication of what to expect when the semi-final session gets under way next Friday. The tip is: get there early if you want a seat.

ILLINI TO FACE TOUGH BADGERS IN VITAL GAME

Doug Mills And His Boys Likened To Yankees Of Baseball Fame

By Graham Hovey

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—It was the 1942 Big Ten basketball campaign which roared into its semifinal week today, but in many respects it looked instead like the American league chase in the closing stages of the 1941 baseball season.

Out in front, and breezing along toward a certain championship was the Illinois team of Doug Mills—in some respects one of the most unusual teams in the Big Ten decade of Big Ten basketball history. The Illini would be the New York Yankees of course.

And at the other end of the ladder were the Chicago Maroons, the "Philadelphia Athletics" of Big Ten basketball. Michigan, Ohio State and Northwestern could be placed in the St. Louis Brown-Washington Senator classification. The other five teams—Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Purdue—were in the throes of a furious battle for second place and other first division berths, just as the Red Sox, the White Sox, the Tigers and Indians were last fall.

In the wake of their tenth victory out of 11 conference starts, the pace-setting Illini will entertain Wisconsin's Badgers at Champaign in one of three important contests tonight. The Illini whipped Ohio State Saturday by a comfortable 48 to 31 margin, despite a mild slump during the early stages. Wisconsin made it seven out of 11 by beating Northwestern, 59 to 47.

Another game having a vital bearing on the torrid fight for second place will be the Indiana-Iowa meeting at Iowa City.

The Hoosiers are holding the runner-up spot at present with eight wins in 11 games and the Hawkeyes remained in a fourth-place Saturday by turning back Michigan, 59 to 38, for their seventh victory in 11 games. Playing on their own court, the Iowa might trim Branch McCracken's boys and thus achieve a deadlock for second place.

Purdue vs. Northwestern at Evanston will be the third contest influencing the first division battle. The Boilermakers should win their eighth game in 12 starts, but the Wildcats, who are doomed to a spot higher than the seventh, might spring an upset if Graham and Russ Wendland are "hot" simultaneously.

ONLY FEW OF ATHLETIC REGULARS IN TRAINING

ANAHEIM, Calif., Feb. 23—Manager Connie Mack cracked the whip over his group of embryo 1942 Athletics today as the squad settled down to a routine of full-time spring drills in preparation for the American league pennant race.

Mack revealed that of eight regulars who held first-string jobs last season, exclusive of pitchers, only one is in camp. Three stars—First Baseman Dick Seibert, Outfielders Bob Johnson and Make Kreevich—are still unsigned.

Connie was encouraged, however, by Coach Earle Brucker's report that the hurling staff "looks good" technically and physically.

LONDON QUINTET TO INVADE CITY FOR TIGER TILT

The final home game on the Circleville high cage schedule is to be played Tuesday evening in the C. A. C. gymnasium when London's capable team comes to town.

Reserve teams of the two schools will compete at 7:15 o'clock after which the varsities will meet.

The Tigers close their pre-tourney schedule Friday night by traveling to Bellefontaine.

ATHLETIC CLUB BOOKS GAME WITH TROTTER 5

Circleville Athletic club has completed a contract with the Harlem Globe Trotters, world famous professional basketball team, to appear on the C.A.C. court next Monday night, March 2.

The Globe Trotters put on a show that is unequalled in basketball circles, and C.A.C. backers are expecting a capacity crowd for the engagement.

EMERY CLUB FIVE WINS FROM LITTLE REN TEAM

Circleville Emery club cagers won a 24-21 thriller Saturday night from the Little Rens of Columbus, the game being played on a YMCA court in the Capital city. The local boys coached by Cuz Dumm led 14-11 at halftime.

March 17 Set For Next Lottery Under Draft

Men Who Registered Last Week To Know Order Numbers Soon

National Selective Service headquarters Monday put the machinery in motion for the third draft lottery which will take place in Washington, March 17, and will assign order numbers for men between the ages of 20 and 44 who registered last week.

Officials said that between 8,000 and 9,000 capsules will be drawn from the historic gold fish bowl, in the first war time lottery since 1918, and the third since enactment of the Selective Service act in 1940.

It is not expected that many of the new registrants will be called in the immediate future as present plans of Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, are not to integrate the order number of the recent registrants into the existing master lists.

An announcement from headquarters said:

"It is contemplated that registrants in the third registration will not be called on until they have answered their questionnaires and have been classified, which probably will not be before May. Prior to May, all War department quotas necessarily must be filled from men 21 to 35 inclusive, who registered in 1940 and 1941.

"If while the February registrants are being classified, the War department requests men in the age groups from 21 to 35, the quotas will come from the 1940 and 1941 registrants. If the request is for men of the third registration, the calls will be filled by the February, 1942 registrants."

Serial numbers in the third draft will be marked T-1, T-2 etc., and the numbers in the capsules drawn will begin with 10,001.

Gen. Hershey has ruled that "publication of order numbers, or even names, in communities is authorized. As such publication will not reveal exactly the total number of registrants enrolled throughout the nation on February 16 — information which is still restricted by the War department."

REGISTRATION IN O. S. U. CLASSES TO BEGIN MAY 1

Pickaway county students attending Ohio State university will register May 1 for their summer quarter work, it is announced by university officials.

The pre-registration of summer students is a new policy, intended to help the university prepare for the summer quarter under the new accelerated program.

According to a new bulletin on summer quarter courses now ready for distribution, all 10 Ohio State colleges are "stepping up" their programs so that students may complete the usual four years' work in three calendar years.

Admission of present high school seniors throughout the state desiring to start their college work in June instead of September is already under way, it is announced.

FRED BROWN, 67, DIES; SERVICES TO BE TUESDAY

Fred N. Brown, 67, widely known stock man, died Saturday at 7 p. m. in Berger hospital where he was taken two hours earlier. Mr. Brown had suffered from asthma for many years.

The Baby He Has Never Seen

Pvt. T. J. Thompson, of Liverpool, Eng., looks at a picture of his baby he has never seen. Member of a family with a real all-out war effort, he has been serving in Libya for the past twelve months. His father is an anti-aircraft gunner in London, he has five brothers in the army, one brother in the navy, a sister in one of Britain's women's organizations.

PRIEST TO HAVE ROLE IN MAJOR CATHOLIC RITES

The Rev. Father Edward Reidy of St. Joseph's Catholic church will have a role as bearer of gifts in a service at St. Joseph's Cathedral, Columbus, Tuesday starting at 10:30 a. m. when the Most Reverend Edward G. Hettinger, D. D., becomes the first auxiliary bishop in the history of the Columbus diocese of which Circleville and Pickaway county are a part.

Many other pastors of Catholic churches will have parts in the consecration exercises. Consecrator will be the Most Reverend James J. Hartley, bishop of Columbus.

Bishop-elect Hettinger is 40. He was ordained June 2, 1928. He was born in Lancaster October 14, 1902, attended St. Mary school in Lancaster, Holy Cross college, Worcester, Mass., and in 1923 entered St. Vincent's seminary, Latrobe, Pa., to complete his studies for the priesthood.

Nine members of the Catholic hierarchy will attend the services, including the Most Reverend John T. McNichols, O. P., S. T. M., archbishop of Cincinnati, who will deliver the sermon.

Other members of the hierarchy who will attend the consecration ceremonies include the Most Reverend Joseph Schrembs, S. T. D., archbishop-bishop of Cleveland; the Most Reverend John F. Noll, D. D., bishop of Fort Wayne; the Most Reverend Karl J. Alter, D. D., bishop of Toledo; the Most Reverend Joseph E. Ritter, D. D., bishop of Indianapolis, and the Most Reverend James A. Fadden, auxiliary bishop of Cleveland.

OBSERVANCE OF HOLIDAY QUIET IN CIRCLEVILLE

Circleville was paying tribute in several ways Monday to George Washington, the first president of the United States.

City schools were closed during the day, with classes scheduled to resume Tuesday morning. The county schools were open Monday, although many of them were holding special assembly programs or were discussing Washington in history and government classes.

Banks were closed all day and the postoffice maintained a Saturday schedule, making one city delivery during the morning. There was no window service and no rural delivery.

Many of the offices in the city, with the exception of government offices were closed, but Circleville industries were continuing with their usual work schedules.

The Civilian Conservation Corps central repair shop was following its usual program with the 20 mechanics and 25 boys working there following their usual workday schedules.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

(Continued from Page Four) States. Some time ago he applied for American citizenship, but was refused on the advice of the State Department. There is no suspicion that he has been engaged in sabotage in this war, but there is suspicion that the same method of several dozen incendiary pencils might have been thrown into the staterooms of the Normandie.

GAS MASKS FOR SENATORS
Jim Landis, new Civil Defense Administrator, was testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee of which Senator Carter Glass of Virginia is chairman. Glass has known Landis for years, used to heckle him when, as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Landis was heckling Wall street. Now they are more friendly.

This time Landis testified regarding Civil Defense appropriations—fire fighting equipment, first aid, gas masks. The gas masks evoked quite a debate. Finally, as Landis concluded and left the room, he met Senator Glass in the corridor.

"I had to leave," said the Senator, pointing to his arguing colleagues. "I had no gas mask."

Note: Landis is wedding out Mrs. R's and LaGuardia's deadwood, bringing order out of Civil Defense chaos.

SUGAR SHORTAGE

If there is an investigation of the sugar shortage, certain Agriculture Department masterminds will have to do a lot of explaining.

Few know that these masterminds, over the protest of domestic beet-sugar producers, last year forced a reduction of sugar-beet acreage from 17 to 20 per cent; also that cane which would have yielded 300,000 tons of sugar was left to rot in Puerto Rican fields because processing was prohibited.

Sugar producers on the other hand, vigorously urged that domestic quotas be lifted to permit maximum output. But the Agriculture mongers refused to heed these warnings. Led by Secretary Claude Wickard, they insisted the United States had ample sugar supplies for all needs—and they kept on chourising this refrain right up to a few weeks ago when Wickard, as a guest speaker on Mrs. Roosevelt's Sunday night radio program, completely changed his tune and broke the news that sugar would have to be rationed.

Wickard bases the shortage on two grounds: (1) heavy demands from our Allies, particularly Russia, whose sugar producing region has been devastated by the Nazis; (2) greatly reduced imports from the Philippines and Hawaii.

Wickard is correct about our Allies, but only partially so on the islands.

The Philippines are out, but not Hawaii. Large munitions shipments are constantly going to these islands, and instead of coming back empty, the ships can carry sugar.

Agriculture Department tycoons are making a big ad about how essential their activities are to the war effort. One essential might be less bungling in unrestricting farm production.

Note: Puerto Rico now has on hand, and waiting to be ground, more sugar-cane than it is allowed to process under the production quota set by the Agriculture Department.

CHECK CHARGES BEING PROBED

Man Who "Looked Like Abe Lincoln" Leads To Investigation

Capture of three men in Chillicothe for the alleged passing of bad checks there may clear up several check cases in Circleville and Pickaway county, Sheriff Charles Radcliff said Monday.

The trio, believed to have passed from 30 to 35 checks in Ross, Pickaway and adjoining counties, was apprehended Thursday evening. Chillicothe Police Chief Russell Poole listed the three as being Clarence Cox, 41, and his two stepsons, Paul Rose, 20, and Ferdinand Rose, 25, all of 280 Elm street, Chillicothe. The Chillicothe police chief filed charges against all three men, who entered guilty pleas to the charges Saturday before Mayor Harold H. Brown, and were committed to the Ross county jail in default of $500 bond.

Sheriff Radcliff reported after a trip to Chillicothe that he was holding several checks which he believed had been passed by the three men. Police Chief W. F. McCrady also possessed checks which he said he believed were passed in Circleville by one of the men. Establishments in Williamsport and New Holland have turned over to the sheriff's department checks which Sheriff Radcliff said may have been written by the same trio.

On Lincoln's birthday, February 12, the three men stopped at a store on South Salem street and passed one of their forged checks. When the men walked away, a bystander remarked that the older man, Clarence Cox, bore a resemblance to Abe Lincoln. Chillicothe authorities connected the Lincoln description with reports on other check passing incidents, which led to the arrest of the three men at their residence.

AUTOIST CHARGES FACES AFTER PICKENS DEATH

Death of Simon Pickens, 81, a native of Circleville, in a Columbus pedestrian-automobile tragedy, has brought warnings from Safety Director Roy B. Weed, of Columbus that older persons should be kept off the streets after dark and that motorists should be especially careful to avoid those who do not remain indoors.

Mr. Pickens was fatally injured Friday night when he was crossing Sullivan avenue at Terrace. "Drivers must learn to remember," he said "that we do have old people walking about our streets at night, and that they must watch out for them. I understand this man was struck in a crosswalk."

Weed asked the police department to file manslaughter charges against Carl Washburn, 3118 Wicklow road, driver of the car which struck Mr. Pickens.

The police department will conduct an inquest Tuesday to determine whether charges should be filed.

The capital city's death toll so far in 1942 is 13 of which nine have been pedestrians. Seven of the nine were older than 69.

March 17 Set For Next Lottery Under Draft

Men Who Registered Last Week To Know Order Numbers Soon

National Selective Service headquarters Monday put the machinery in motion for the third draft lottery which will take place in Washington, March 17, and will assign order numbers for men between the ages of 20 and 44 who registered last week.

Officials said that between 8,000 and 9,000 capsules will be drawn from the historic gold fish bowl, in the first war time lottery since 1918, and the third since enactment of the Selective Service act in 1940.

It is not expected that many of the new registrants will be called in the immediate future as present plans of Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, are not to integrate the order number of the recent registrants into the existing master lists.

An announcement from headquarters said:

"It is contemplated that registrants in the third registration will not be called on until they have answered their questionnaires and have been classified, which probably will not be before May. Prior to May, all War department quotas necessarily must be filled from men 21 to 35 inclusive, who registered in 1940 and 1941.

"If while the February registrants are being classified, the War department requests men in the age groups from 21 to 35, the quotas will come from the 1940 and 1941 registrants. If the request is for men of the third registration, the calls will be filled by the February, 1942 registrants."

Serial numbers in the third draft will be marked T-1, T-2 etc., and the numbers in the capsules drawn will begin with 10,001.

Gen. Hershey has ruled that "publication of order numbers, or even names, in communities is authorized. As such publication will not reveal exactly the total number of registrants enrolled throughout the nation on February 16 — information which is still restricted by the War department."

REGISTRATION IN O. S. U. CLASSES TO BEGIN MAY 1

Pickaway county students attending Ohio State university will register May 1 for their summer quarter work, it is announced by university officials.

The pre-registration of summer students is a new policy, intended to help the university prepare for the summer quarter under the new accelerated program.

According to a new bulletin on summer quarter courses now ready for distribution, all 10 Ohio State colleges are "stepping up" their programs so that students may complete the usual four years' work in three calendar years.

Admission of present high school seniors throughout the state desiring to start their college work in June instead of September is already under way, it is announced.

Father Edward Reidy of St. Joseph's Catholic church will have a role as bearer of gifts in a service at St. Joseph's Cathedral, Columbus, Tuesday starting at 10:30 a. m. when the Most Reverend Edward G. Hettinger, D. D., becomes the first auxiliary bishop in the history of the Columbus diocese of which Circleville and Pickaway county are a part.

Many other pastors of Catholic churches will have parts in the consecration exercises. Consecrator will be the Most Reverend James J. Hartley, bishop of Columbus.

Bishop-elect Hettinger is 40. He was ordained June 2, 1928. He was born in Lancaster October 14, 1902, attended St. Mary school in Lancaster, Holy Cross college, Worcester, Mass., and in 1923 entered St. Vincent's seminary, Latrobe, Pa., to complete his studies for the priesthood.

Nine members of the Catholic hierarchy will attend the services, including the Most Reverend John T. McNichols, O. P. S. T. M., archbishop of Cincinnati, who will deliver the sermon.

OBSERVANCE OF HOLIDAY QUIET IN CIRCLEVILLE

Circleville was paying tribute in several ways Monday to George Washington, the first president of the United States.

City schools were closed during the day, with classes scheduled to resume Tuesday morning. The county schools were open Monday, although many of them were holding special assembly programs or were discussing Washington in history and government classes.

Banks were closed all day and the postoffice maintained a Saturday schedule, making one city delivery during the morning. There was no window service and no rural delivery.

Many of the offices in the city, with the exception of government offices were closed, but Circleville industries were continuing with their usual work schedules.

The Civilian Conservation Corps central repair shop was following its usual program with the 20 mechanics and 25 boys working there following their usual workday schedules.
